IECOT

International Exegetical Commentary on the Old Testament

A team of international editorial board members and authors presents a multi-perspective, innovative and intensive interpretation of the books of the Old Testament in about 50 volumes.

IECOT combines an international orientation with ecumenical broadness and brings together two, often opposed perspectives, described as “synchronic” and “diachronic”.

Each volume appears both in English and German. Three to four volumes are published every year. The delay between the respective original and its translated version does not exceed two years.

The origin of the Old Testament

594 pages, € 36,99
ISBN: 978-3-17-020354-9

This teaching and textbook describes the biblical writings, first by content and structure, and then follows their process of coming into being back to the respective reason for their origin. The framework for this is the canon of the Hebrew Bible, which is defined in the introductory section by the Greek and Christian Bible and the so-called Apocrypha. The four parts of the volume are introduced by overview chapters: the Pentateuch as a whole, the Deuteronomistic historical work, the phenomenon of prophecy and Hebrew poetry. The author also appropriately discusses the progress and current state of research. Comprehensive bibliographies characterise the entire work. Anyone wishing to intensively examine the Old Testament and its origins will obtain sound information here.

Introduction to the Old Testament

8th revised and extended edition

878 pages, € 29,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-022165-9

This Textbook provides an introduction to the „big“ (catholic) canon of the Christian Old Testament. The „Old Testament“ is the holy scripture of the Jews and Christians: the Torah/Pentateuch, the books of history, the books of wisdom and the prophets. The origin of each book is embedded into its historical and religious context, so that it proven to be an effect of the Israeli history of belief. The author especially reflects on the dual character of the Old Testament as (unifying and separating) Bible of Jews and Christians. Thus the current relevance of the Old Testaments is demonstrated.

For the new, 8th edition all contributions have been brought up to date. Comprehensibility especially for students lay at the centre of the new edition. Most contributions by Erich Zenger have been modified carefully and only the parts on the Pentateuch and the Psalms has been modified more intensely.

Target Group

Introduction to the New Testament

2nd revised and updated edition

604 pages, € 29,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-023093-4

Well-structured and easy to read the authors of this textbook present this introduction on level with the current academic debate. The writings are at the centre of the work. They are organised in four thematic blocks, preceded by general topics (questions on synopsis, pseudepigrapha). Every writing is analyzed following its structure, its genesis (time, place, author, sources, and hypothesis of separation) and its specific discussion (cultural milieu, situation, content).

Compact New Testament

356 pages, € 24,99
ISBN: 978-3-17-021235-0

The volume introduces all the areas of the New Testament relevant for study. Alongside an introduction to the writings of the New Testament, it offers biographical portraits of the key figures of the New Testament. Separate chapters are dedicated to Jesus and Paul. The volume also presents the main methods of text analysis and central hermeneutical approaches to the New Testament. It also includes an overview of the religious environment, such as the historical context of the New Testament and the history of early Christianity. Finally it includes an insight into extra-canonical writings, thematic cross-sections through the New Testament and considerations of fundamental questions of New Testament ethics.

Human Rights in Interreligious Dialogue

Potential for Conflict or Integration

194 pages, € 24,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-022240-3

Building on two fundamental contributions on human rights on the one hand and interreligious dialogue on the other, the entire spectrum of the issue is looked upon. Next to the Christian confessions the Islamic, Jewish and Asian perspectives are taken into account. Academics from different fields as well as representatives of varying areas and cultures give insights to the interdisciplinary, interreligious and intercultural discourse on the significance of human rights.

Ali Özgür Özdil

Islamic theology and religious education in Europe

340 pages, € 29,80
ISBN: 978-3-17-021936-6

The number of Muslims in Europe is growing, as is the need for Islamic education and training institutions. The integration of Islamic theology and religious education into European higher education creates challenges for both sides. Özdil explains the history of Islamic theology and law schools in Islam and presents Centres of Islamic Studies in Europe and in the Islamic world. In doing so, he provides an overview of 31 institutions in 13 countries.

One focus of his research deals with questions relating to the constitutions of Islamic professorships in Germany, which have still not been satisfactorily answered. Islamic chairs have already been institutionally rooted at several universities, a factor that the author discusses in detail. The volume includes a comprehensive appendix with summaries, addresses and further information on the educational institutions examined.

Author

Ali Özgür Özdil is Director of the Islamic Scientific and Educational Institute e.V., Hamburg.

Islam, Women and Europe

Islamic Fundamentalism and gender jihad - new paths for Muslim women in Europe

270 pages, € 26,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-021152-0

The debate on „Islamic feminism“ and „gender jihad“ is becoming increasingly relevant and growing in intensity in Europe, and especially in recent years in the German-speaking region. Within the context of Western feminism and Western feminist theology, intercultural and/or inter-religious dialogue is growing in importance, above all in the process of political decision-making. The articles in this book provide a comprehensive insight into this discourse focussing on the following main topics: Female Koranic exegesis and textual hermeneutics - Islamic feminism and the discussion of social and political action strategies - Women's rights as human rights and the situation of Muslim women with and without a migrant background - Forms, tasks, and problem/conflict zones of intercultural and/or inter-religious dialogue.

Martyr worship in early Christianity

Evidence and cultural impact

208 pages, € 29,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-024142-8

Martyr worship is an important element of the Christian faith and was essential both for the internal cohesion of the faith group in its early founding phase as well as for its effective portrayal to the outside world, which was used for the conversion of non-Christians.

This volume considers the evidence of martyr worship and demonstrates how the cult and worship of martyrs prevailed in Late Antiquity, culturally shaped society and how the idea of martyr worship still has a stylistic impact today. The „martyrs“ of 9/11 are examples of this long line of continuity, when one compares the early lives of the Saints with modern Islamic websites.

Authors

Silke-Petra Bergjan (Professor of Church and Theological History) and Beat Näf (Professor of Ancient History) conduct research and lecture at the University of Zurich.

Target groups

Europe and the Empire during the Thirty Years' War

History of a European conflict

2nd edition

238 pages, € 29,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-023667-7

The Thirty Years' War originated from political sectarian disputes in the Holy Roman Empire, but then became one of the biggest war disasters of modern times, in which many European powers were involved. How the conflict could take on such a destructive dynamic is the question that lies at the heart of the book. As a peace settlement failed to materialise in the Empire, the trouble spots in Europe gradually and unstopably spread through the Empire. That is how the war entered its devastating escalation phase and finally became a European conflict. The warfare, the composition of the mercenary armies and finally the Peace Congress that ended the war were also European.

Wolfram Pyta

History of football in Germany and Europe since 1954

184 pages, € 24,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-022641-8

Football thrills the masses - and not just in Germany. In recent years, historical science has therefore also considered the phenomenon of football within the context of everyday life and social history, with social historians particularly interested in the social, societal and economic connections of the sport. The German Football League has experienced a steady upward trend since it was founded; however the German Bundesliga scandal of the 1970s demonstrates that this path has not been as straightforward, as is believed. The focus of the book is the growth of the German Bundesliga, as it has evolved as a link between society and sport. The book is thus an inventory of the state of modern football.

Germany as a destination for immigrants

Terminology – Facts – Controversies

256 pages, € 19,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-022326-4

The issues of migration and integration have dynamically evolved in recent years to become stand-alone policy areas. Politics and business, the public and the media are in agreement that these are key issues for the future. The issues of migration and integration are not only on everyone's lips, but are increasingly becoming a practical policy area at all levels of administration, where tens of thousands of people are dealing with these issues, both professionally and voluntarily. The publishers of this book have compiled a handy compendium, which offers reliable information on over 60 key terms from the policy area of migration and integration in the form of short, factual articles from well-known authors from all over Germany.

Hitler as a symbolic politician

473 pages, € 49,99
ISBN: 978-3-17-025191-5

The persona of Hitler is well researched, yet there are still many unanswered questions that need to be raised about the success of the „Corporal from Braunau“. The fact that Hitler knew how to lead and that he exercised „charismatic authority“, is widely recognised, but little research has been undertaken to date about how Hitler was able to develop into this „charismatic ruler“.

This work makes clear that actively controlled symbolic communication, associated with Hitler, became a strategy of Nazi rule, which specifically used the asymmetrical and polycratic structures of the state.

Henry VIII of England

Life – Rule – Impact

318 pages, € 24,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-021900-7

Apart from Elizabeth I, Henry VIII is the most powerful English king in the 16th century. Thanks to his far-sighted policy, he succeeded in creating the basis for the British Empire. Today we know this important ruler predominantly because of his many wives; but he is significantly more important as the founder of the English state church and because of his disputes with Parliament, the nobility and other rulers in Europe. In addition, the Early Modern state was also formed during his reign. The author briefly sketches the life of the King, but the subsequent focus of his presentation is on a thematically structured history of England.

Author

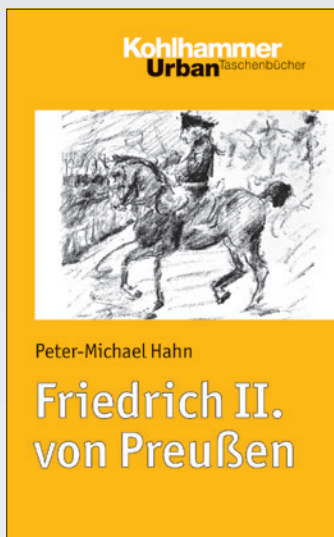

Prof. Dr. Dieter Berg lectured in Medieval History at the Leibniz University of Hanover until he stood down.

Friedrich II of Prussia

268 pages, € 22,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-021360-9

Frederick the 2nd, the Great, „Old Fritz“, lives in German imagination up to today. His love for philosophy and art often veils the highly risky policy of the Silesian wars and Seven Years' War, which nearly led to the downfall of Prussia. Vivid, critical and academically sound the work demonstrates how Frederick influenced and changed his time. A basic overview over the history of the king, his different roles and functions as regent, officer, builder, collector and patron of the arts is given. Additionally his self-image as well as his survival as scholar king is addressed. These functions are linked with the history of Potsdam and Prussia, thus creating an exciting overview of the late 18th century.

Author

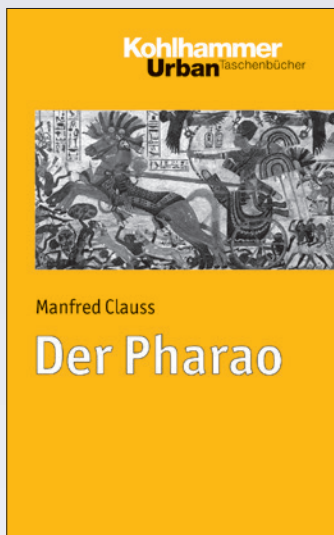

Professor Dr. Hahn holds the chair for regional history at the University of Potsdam.

Target groups

The Pharaoh

266 pages, € 24,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-021658-7

For over 3000 years he protected, ruled and stood for Egypt: the pharaoh. His person guaranteed the existence of the country, he defended it against its enemies and kept the world from falling into chaos. Over 330 kings from 30 dynasties ruled an empire that lasted longer than any other after it. Beginning with the description of the office, the work describes the role of the pharaoh as son of the sun, god himself, as well as his tasks as priest to the gods and his country.

As a ruler he was mainly a warrior, a fact that every traveller to Egypt can see in countless pictures. But he also was at the top of the administration, chief justice and owner of everything below, on or above earth.

The Cistercians

318 pages, € 26,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-022142-0

Cistercians are the reform order of Benedictine monks dating back to the High Middle Ages. As ingenious technical designers, they laid down the basis for intensive agriculture. Their ideal of piety was far ahead of the mendicant orders and made the Benedictine order attractive again in the time of the Investiture Controversy.

The book covers the history of the Cistercians from their foundation by Robert of Molesme and Bernard of Clairvaux, through their cultural, scientific and social function in the Middle Ages to the present day, although its focal point - the importance of the order - was in the Middle Ages.

Author

Professor Dr. Jörg Oberste is Professor of Medieval History and Historical Auxiliary Sciences at the University of Regensburg.

Inca history and culture

144 pages, € 19,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-021629-7

The Inca continue to fascinate us today. The book presents their unique history from its beginnings to the conquest by the Spaniards in the 16th century. The book also presents the sources and the research methods used. It provides a comprehensive insight into their state, social and religious structures as well as into everyday life and festivals. It includes the many research findings in recent years, particularly among the provinces of the Inca Empire, and makes them accessible to a wider audience. This brilliantly written and easy to understand book includes everything there is to know about the state and society, urban planning and architecture and precursor cultures.

Author

Western Rome

From Honorius to Justinian

240 pages, € 24,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-023276-1

The West of the Roman Empire experienced a chain of dramatic events and development from 396 AD onwards. The last Western emperor was deposed in 476 AD and Justinian abolished the Western Roman court in 554 AD. These events, which mark the transition from antiquity to the Middle Ages in Europe, are often explained by a „civic migration“. However, this book, by contrast, highlights internal Roman conflicts: Western Rome was not conquered. Its successive empires only superseded the authority of the imperial government, when endless civil wars had led to the collapse of Roman rule. A systematic overview of Empire, administration, army, economy and religion completes the presentation.

Dr. Henning Börm lectures in Ancient History at the University of Konstanz.

Understanding yourself with C.G. Jung

Eight cognition tasks on our path to individuation

160 pages, € 24,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-021335-7

Analytical psychology, according to C.G. Jung, offers in individuation a sound and contemporary approach to dealing with what constitutes the realisation of a person's own personality on his individual path through life. The book introduces the basics of analytical psychology and gives readers a check-list with eight cognition tasks, which enable them to explore the dimensions of their own individuation and meaningfully execute key stimuli. The author presents C. G. Jung's world of ideas in an outstanding professional manner, at the same time clearly calling upon many examples from everyday life.

Author

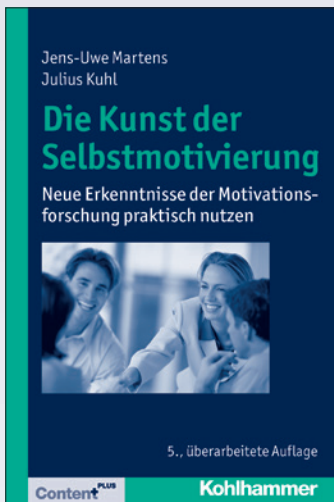

Dieter Schnocks is a Dipl. psychologist and Psychological Psychotherapist in his own private practice, lecturer and educational analyst. He is the first Chairperson of the Stuttgart C.G. Jung Institute and Coordinator of the German-speaking C. G. Jung societies.

Target groups

Shame and the evil eye

Understanding the negative therapeutic reaction

2nd edition
214 pages, € 26,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-023281-5

This book deals not just with urgent outward shame, but rather its inwardness. The author examines how these internal conflicts of shame are reflected in all relationships. He focuses on the following issues: the „negative therapeutic reaction“, the „evil eye“, the dynamics of envy and jealousy and their roots in the emotions of shame, lies and betrayal. He also discusses the origins of the formation of conscience and the dichotomy of the „inner judge“ and its various sides.

Author

Prof. Dr. Léon Wurmser enjoys an international reputation as a Psychiatrist and Psychoanalyst. He works in his own private practice in Towson, Maryland, and also as an Educational Analyst and Supervisor at the New York Freudian Society.

Target groups

The many colours of autism

Spectrum, cause, diagnosis, therapy and advice

188 pages, € 24,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-023352-2

The author of this work presents a modern approach that is only now gradually starting to become established in German-speaking countries: autism is not an uncommon severe disability. Autism is rather a relatively common phenomenon with a broad spectrum, from mentally handicapped to gifted people, who suffer from mild to severe forms of the condition. An easily understood colour chart helps to illustrate this. Apart from diagnosis and origins of the spectrum disorders, the book also offers helpful strategies for education and school life. The book is enhanced by numerous case studies and practical guidance for children on the autism spectrum, their parents and therapists.

Author

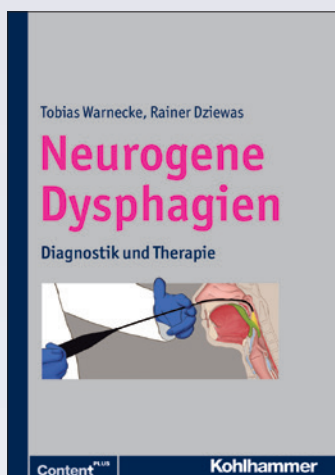

Dr. med. Thomas Girsberger is a Consultant in Paediatric and Adolescent Psychiatry. He has been working for 25 years in his own private practice near Basle. His key focus is on ADHD and the autism spectrum.

Neurogenic Dysphagia

247 pages, € 59,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-021882-6

Neurological diseases, like strokes, dementia and Parkinsons, are the most common causes of dysphagia. Neurogenic dysphagia is playing a growing role in outpatient and inpatient care due to its often serious health consequences as well as due to the ageing population. This textbook deals with practice-based neurophysiological principles and the diagnosis and treatment of neurogenic dysphagia based on the current state of clinical research. The focus of the book is on the implementation and findings of the fibre-optic endoscopic evaluation of swallowing (FEES) including specific neurological examination protocols.

Authors

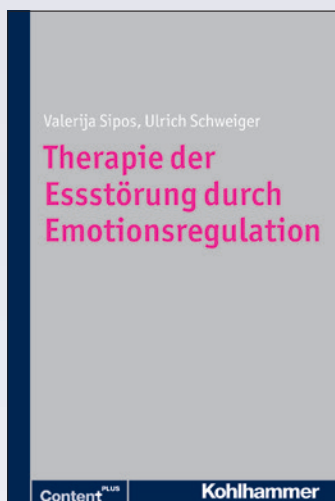

Assoc. Dr. med. Tobias Warnecke and Prof. Dr. med. Rainer Dziewas work at the Department of Neurology, University Hospital Münster.

Treatment of Eating Disorders by Emotion Regulation

246 pages, € 39,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-020998-5

Eating disorders belong to the leading causes of lost life years in young adult women.

Current behavioural treatments are efficacious but reach only part of the affected women. The treatment presented in this book differs from many prior treatment approaches in that it assumes that disturbed eating behaviour is a consequence of difficulties in emotional regulation. It focuses on imparting skills that improve self-management, foster mindful and healthy eating behaviour, emotion regulation, social skills and distress tolerance.

“Treatment of Eating Disorders by Emotional Regulation” has a modular structure and is designed for use as the basis for inpatient and outpatient treatment and also has a self-help manual. It contains a plenty of psychoeducational materials, work sheets, case vignettes and background information for therapists.

Postnatal depression and other mental problems

A guide for affected women and their families

202 pages, € 24,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-022116-1

Baby blues, postnatal depression, a traumatic birth - affected women and their families can often not correctly classify their psychological problems. If women are unhappy during pregnancy or after the birth of a child, the question arises as to whether this is still „normal“ or whether this is the manifestation of symptoms of depression or another mental disorder. There is a considerable need for information about this.

The guide offers knowledge about the symptoms and causes of postnatal depression and psychosis, anxiety and compulsive disorders, as well as providing treatment options, possible aids and support. It also answers frequently asked questions, and offers case studies and experiences of those affected.

Author

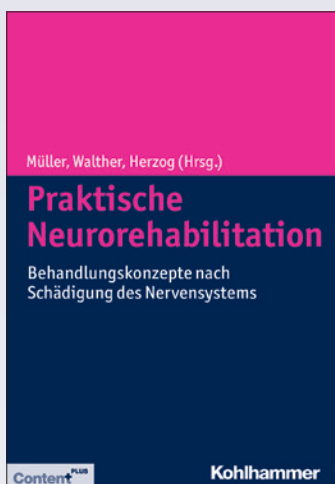

Prof. Dr. med. Anke Rohde, Psychiatrist and Psychotherapist, Director of the „Gynaecological Psychosomatics“ Department at the Centre for Obstetrics and Gynaecology, University Hospital Bonn.

Target groups

Practical neuro-rehabilitation

Treatment approaches following damage to the nervous system

400 pages, € 84,99
ISBN: 978-3-17-019889-0

Neurological early rehabilitation following injury to the nervous system has continuously evolved since the 1990s into a highly specialised discipline. This practice-based work represents both a manual and a guide for doctors, nurses and therapists, and summarises the experiences of staff at the Schön Hospital in Bad Aibling. The book describes neurological syndromes that can be rehabilitated, as well as differential diagnoses, therapy options, treatment procedures and socio-medical aspects.

Authors

Dr. Dipl. Psych. Friedemann Müller (Schön Hospital, Bad Aibling),
Dr. Ernst Walther (Schön Hospital, Hamburg Eilbek) and Dr. Jürgen Herzog (Schön Hospital, Munich-Schwabing) are all neurological doctors and, as Senior Consultants, head up specialist hospitals for neurological rehabilitation and early rehabilitation.

The dream of having a Child

Psychological Help for an Unrealized Desire for a Child

4th revised edition

188 pages, € 19,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-021160-5

This proven guidebook offers comprehensive information and concrete help in the field of undesired childlessness. Affected as well as doctors and experts can gain from the authors practical knowledge.

„What to do, feel and how to cope? The path to a child of dreams is often long and winding and often ends without having reached the goal. The widely appraised book doesn't only explain the most important methods of artificial insemination and the current legal situation, but mainly gives sound help for coping with unwanted childlessness. The work includes a multitude of advice for the affected.“ (Planet Wissen 11/2003)

Basic concepts, theories and methods of educational science

An introduction

7th revised edition

248 pages, € 19,90

ISBN: 978-3-17-025459-6

The book delivers the key basic concepts, theoretical approaches and methodological modes in educational science. The first part presents the basic concepts of education, training and socialisation and uses case studies to illustrate their significance for educational situations. The second part deals with the question of what leads to statements about education, training and socialisation to become scientific statements. To this end, the author presents different scientific views and uses examples to test their relevance for educational methodology.

Pocket encyclopaedia of mental disabilities

Key concepts from the fields of remedial and special education, social work, medicine, psychology, sociology and social policy)

2nd revised and extended edition
424 pages, € 36,90
ISBN 978-3-17-022531-2

Work with mentally disabled people has advanced in recent years to a much greater extent than in any other field of remedial and special education. By recognising the learning and developmental ability of people with mental disabilities, the theories and concepts for supporting people with mental disabilities take into account the person's competence and strengths alongside the perspective of the affected person, together with a commitment to reinforce their rights in law. The pocket encyclopaedia represents a sound scientific guide in view of rapid developments in this field.

Authors

Professor Dr. Georg Theunissen holds the Chair for Education for the Mentally Disabled and Education with Autism at the University of Halle-Wittenberg. Dr. Wolfram Kulig is a Scientific Assistant there. Dipl. Paed. Kerstin Schirbort is Educational Director of a residential centre for people with learning difficulties and complex disabilities.

Target groups

Karl Engisch

Introduction to Legal Reasoning

11th revised edition
356 pages, € 19,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-021414-9

First published in 1956, Karl Engisch's "Einführung in das juristische Denken" is now one of the classics of legal literature. Over eight chapters, it primarily addresses the fundamentals of methodology, but also examines the basics of legal philosophy against the backdrop of twentieth century schools of thought. The book is aimed at introducing both students of law and all non-professionals with an interest in the field to the mysterious and occasionally dubious logic and methodology of the legal mind.

Author

Prof. Dr. Thomas Würtenberger, Faculty of Law at the University of Freiburg; Dr. Dirk Otto, doctor of and author on political philosophy.

Target readership

Law students, and anyone with an interest in the law.

Right of asylum and immigration law

3rd edition
568 pages, € 32,90
ISBN: 978-3-17-022994-5

Since the publication of the second edition, the right of residence and asylum has been adapted to comply with numerous EU directives and regulations. The jurisdiction of the ECJ and the European Court of Human Rights increasingly determines the interpretation and evolution of immigration law. This new edition presents the main fields of immigration law, the right of asylum and the right to freedom of movement within the EU based on legal reforms and the most recent legislation. The book takes into account the fundamental changes that the Immigration Act has undergone as a result of the EU Highly-qualified Directive (also known as the Blue Card Directive), the Directive for returning illegally staying third-country nationals and the Visa Code. As before, the book places special emphasis on practice-based explanations. Case studies aid ease of understanding.

Author

Prof. Dr. Dr. h. c. Kay Hailbronner, Profession Emeritus Ordinarius in Public Law, International and European Law and Head of the Konstanz Research Centre for Immigration Law.

International Insolvency Law

The European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings; art. 102 and 102a of the German Introductory Act to the Insolvency Statute; sections 335 to 358 of the German Insolvency Statute; selected provisions of the German Insolvency Statute expanded and revised 2nd edition

502 pages, € 94,00
ISBN: 978-3-17-022094-2

The European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings and Germany's own body of international insolvency law are becoming increasingly important in insolvency practice. The European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings is shaped largely by the case law of the ECJ and of the national courts. This commentary examines both this case law and the way in which international insolvency law influences the interpretation of German insolvency law.

The commentary addresses the European Regulation on Insolvency Proceedings, the provisions of art. 102 and art. 102a, sections 1 et seqq. of the German Introductory Act to the Insolvency Statute [EGInsO], section 335 et seqq. of the German Insolvency Statute [InsO] and selected provisions of German insolvency law.

Authors

Peter Leonhardt, lawyer and notary, Berlin; Prof. Dr. Stefan Smid, Kiel; Prof. Dr. Mark Zeuner, insolvency lawyer, Hamburg.

Target readership

Administrators and liquidators, lawyers, public accountants, auditors, judges, court officials and public prosecution services.
